The OM in our HOME

Om or Aum is a sacred syllable representing Brahman (God, Consciousness, Zero-Point Field, Unmanifest Potentiality – whatever we call it) that is the source of all manifest existence.

Everything in the universe is energy, which is both unmanifest as potential energy, and manifest into the objects of the universe. As Einstein said:  $E = mc^2$ . Energy is equal to Matter. Energy can never be destroyed, it only changes form.

The process of manifestation from pure potential energy into everything that exists is the subject of the ancient (10-12,000 BC) Indian Vaastu Shastras (also called Sthapatya Veda). These scientific treatises contain and explain this process, using fairly simple mathematical formulas. They also explain how designing buildings, towns and cities in accordance and harmony with these principals that govern all of creation, can promote health, happiness, peace, and overall well being of the inhabitants.

“To create and offer the house of supreme bliss and to enable us to experience the supreme bliss here in this mundane house itself – these are the prime motives of the Vaastu science” (Dr. V. Ganapati Sthapati)

“This science deals with the eternal process of subtle energy manifesting into material space and material form. In short, it is the science of manifestation of energy into form”
